Cambodia Red Cross Community Based Health Development programme is seeking a Faroe Island native for short term mission

Background:

The Danish Red Cross has since 2003 supported the Cambodian Red Cross in implementing a Community Based Health Development programme in rural provinces of Cambodia. The programme is currently working under a long term agreement, ending in 2011. Since early 2009 the Faroe Island Red Cross, with financial support from the Faroe Island Government, is supporting one of the poorest and most remote provinces in Cambodia, Rattanakiri province. The province is situated in the north-eastern corner of the country, bordering Laos and Vietnam. The financial support from the Faroe Island government runs over one year, with a possible extension for two additional years.

The Danish Red Cross is currently recruiting a professional from the Faroe Islands (Faroe Island native) to support the local branch of the Cambodian Red Cross in Rattanakiri province, for a period of two months (tentative from 15th August – 15th October 2009). The candidate must be prepared to carry out information work in collaboration with the Faroe Island Red Cross when returning home after the two months mission.

Job description:

- Provide technical support related to implementation and supervision of the Community Based Health Development programme in Rattanakiri province.

- Develop health, nutrition and/or water & sanitation related training material, in collaboration with local staff.
- Carry out internal staff trainings/workshop, related to health, nutrition and/or water & sanitation.
- Assist in strengthening local staff training techniques in the field.
- Collect case stories from the field / document impact of the programme.
- Carry out information meetings on the Faroe Islands after the contract period.

Requirements:

- Educational background within public health (doctor, midwife, nurse or university degree in public health/nutrition), education (teacher), or other relevant background.
- Ability to work in English.
- Ability to live and work in remote areas, and to adapt to local culture and settings.
- Interest in humanitarian/development work.

Application in English and CV shall be sent by email to the Danish Red Cross Country Coordinator in Cambodia, Jytte Rowall, danishrc@online.com.kh. Deadline 9th June 2009.

For more information, please email the above mentioned email address, or call +855 12222760.

Interviews are expected to be carried out in Tórshavn on the 22nd of June 2009.
